You should name the file with your applet name, HelloWorldApplet.java, run the compiler (javac), getting a bytecode file HellowWorldApplet.class, which you put in a Web directory.

```
<html> <head>
<title> Simple Hello Page </title>
</head>
<body>
My Java applet says:
<applet code="HelloWorldApplet.class" width=150
height=25>
</body> </html>
```

Name of your applet class.

Browser uses a rectangule of width 150 pixels and height 25 pixels to display the applet.
