Milinda Pathirage is a computer science PhD candidate at Indiana University interested in distributed stream processing and programming abstractions for stream processing. He is a member of Apache Software Foundation and contributes to several Apache projects including Apache Samza and Apache Calcite.