

Supun Kamburugamuve is a PHD Student in the Computer Science Department of Indiana University Bloomington. He is an Apache Software Foundation member and is a contributor on many open source projects including Apache Web Services and Apache Synapse. He has been actively contributing in developing middle ware systems into cloud environments. His research interests include real time data analytic for sensor networks and robots in clouds.