

Dear Sir/Madam,

Here I write you this email to apply for a postdoctoral position of The laboratories of Prof. Bogdan Dragnea and Prof. James A. Glazier.

I am working on molecular medical virology. I will get my Ph.D. degree (College of Life Sciences, Wuhan University, China) in this month, and my thesis title is: The study on the interaction between hepatitis C virus NS2 protein and eukaryotic cells.

I am very interested in understanding the biological functions and the interaction of proteins. I have many research experiences in these research fields, such as molecular biology, cell biology, virology technology, animal handling, etc. And my doctoral research areas are molecular virology and cellular signal transduction. I think that I am competent for these research works.

Attached please find my CV (including three references), and the attachment is in Acrobat PDF format.

I am more than willing to answer any of your questions concerning my application and research. I am looking forward to your response.

Sincerely Yours,

Xiao-Jun Yang,
