

I'm a young hard-worker biochemistry man (Whatever it takes to get the job done, whatever it takes.) Here in Cornell I'm a current postdoc at the microbiology and immunology department, and I work with Yersinia pestis and Mycobacterium tuberculosis, Brucella abortus, basically I work with molecular biology. I'm available to start working in July.06. I have a talk already prepared, in this way I'll be more than happy to visit your lab for an interview. If you liked my profile do not hesitate in contact me, also I'm not afraid to learn new things. I really feel comfortable with that. I'm here in this country with a J-1 visa status. It will be an honor work in your group.
