To whom it may concern,

This is to confirm that Paul Coddington will be based in New York City on a long-term basis while working for the Northeast Parallel Architectures Center (NPAC).

Dr Coddington will be working part of his time on a federally-funded contract to develop a high-performance software library, and the rest of his time will involve working with companies in the New York City and Hudson Valley areas, as part of NPAC's InfoMall technology transfer program.

Yours sincerely,

Geoffrey Fox
Director of NPAC
Professor of Physics and
Computer Science
